

Barbara COLLINET

In her works Barbara COLLINET challenges the viewer with continuous changes between abstraction and reality that show both symbols and living organic figures.

Her paintings' intense impact on us emerges from simplified drawings of masterly technique combined with a sovereign use of colors mixed together with a self-made liquid which she calls the "mass".

In her work she has acquired a radical and unique version of art.

Nevertheless Barbara Collinet never loses contact to reality, her almost infinite extension of abstractiveness stands on firm ground like a strong building on its foundations.

Her ground, her ability, her paintings and Barbara Collinet herself can be called a divergence in abstraction and reality.
